

My name is Suheily Alvarez and for the past two years, I have been striving to earn my certifications in Digital Design at The English Center, and prepare for my Adobe certification exams. As a student of the Digital Design programs, I would like to share my story with you.

Once upon a time, I used to think that my dreams were just dreams, and that only certain people got to have the kind of education I dreamed of having.

I spent years, dreaming of finding and searching for the right program for an aspiring creative professional like myself, with a passion for technology and the arts: that would not set me back with crippling debt. I like to think I'm pretty ambitious, and one reason for this is, I couldn't quite satisfy my desire to find the right program that would combine all my interests: design, digital art, adobe, technology, web, video, photo, editing and so much more.

This program wouldn't be the same without the driving forces behind it: the curriculum that stays up to date with current industry standards and trends, and the incredible instructors that mentor, push us, encourage and inspire us: Mr. P. Ordonez, and Mr. J. Lira.

When I first discovered the school and program, I was a university student coming from a different field and background, desperate to find a way to gain a mentor and structured education in the digital arts and digital media.

My instructors helped me in more ways than I could have imagined. They were there for me when I needed job references, and thanks to their support, I landed a job at a local college, a lowly clerk position, that would then lead me to understanding the educational system on a deeper level inside and out, as well as finding out about grants and opportunities that would ultimately allow me to get my tuition covered as a college student.

I look forward to the future, and the many opportunities I will surely take on ahead. Dreams really do come true, we must work toward them and never give up.

If the whole point of this educational institution is to help us get a job, then mission accomplished, but I do want to stress, finding the right program for you can help you leave with so much more: both personal fulfillment and development are invaluable.

When I first started the program, I was immediately impressed by the comprehensive curriculum and the practical skills it offered. The courses were well-structured and covered a wide range of topics, from graphic design principles to user interface development. The program provided a solid foundation in design theory, while also equipping me with the necessary technical skills to bring my creative ideas to life.

One aspect that truly stood out to me, was the caliber of the teachers and mentors in the program. They were not only knowledgeable and experienced professionals in the field of Digital Design, but they were also passionate about helping students succeed. They provided valuable guidance and feedback, pushing me to constantly improve and refine my skills. Their dedication and support were instrumental in my progress throughout the program.

Moreover, the school itself provided a conducive learning environment. The facilities were well-equipped with the latest design software and tools, allowing us to gain hands-on experience and stay updated with industry practices. The collaborative atmosphere fostered a sense of community among students, encouraging us to exchange ideas and learn from one another.

Overall, I can confidently say that the digital design program at our school has been a transformative experience for me. It not only equipped me with the necessary skills and knowledge to thrive in the field of Digital Design but also instilled in me a passion for creativity and innovation. I wholeheartedly recommend this program to future students who are seeking a comprehensive and inspiring education in Digital Design.
